Speaker

Bio

Heather Holjevac is an award-winning CFP, financial planner and featured speaker who over the past 30 years, has worked in the financial industry to provide thousands of families and professionals in Canada with the education and tools to improve their financial literacy.

In June 2019, after being nominated for the Wealth Professional IFSE inaugural Institute's Financial Literacy Champion Award, Heather made the decision to go independent and founded the Holjevac Financial Group. This has allowed her to continue her focus on her passion of educating a diverse set of individuals, improving financial literacy and empowering women to achieve financial independence, as well as providing complete financial peace of mind.
